BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
The Best Tonic
For Weakness, Indigestion, Lack of Energy, etc. It has no equal, and is the only iron medicine that is not injurious. It enriches the blood, invigorates the system, restores appetite, aids digestion, does not blacken or injure the teeth, cause headache or produce constipation—other iron medicines do. Dr. G. H. BUNN, a leading physician of Springfield, Ohio, says:
"Brown's Iron Bitters is a thoroughly good medicine. I use it in my practice, and find its action exceeds all other forms of iron. In weakness, or a low condition of the system, Brown's Iron Bitters is really a positive necessity. It is all that is claimed for it."
Dr. W. N. WATERS, 1219 Third Street, Cincinnati, Ohio, says: "Brown's Iron Bitters is the tonic of the age. Nothing better. It creates appetite, gives strength and improves digestion."

THE INDIAN WAR IS OVER.

GOVERNOR ADAMS INTERVIEWED ON THE UTE TROUBLE.

He Thinks That No. Prevented a Second Meeker Massacre—What He Learned By a Trip to the Scene of the Ute Battle. No Sympathy Expressed for Colorow.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 8.—Governor Adams and his party has returned from the scenes of the Indian troubles. In an interview he said: "I shall always feel that sending the troops to Meeker prevented a general massacre. We have got the Indians back on the reservation, and I think they will stay there. Gen. Crook has offered me use of United States troops to keep them there, and I think they will stay. There will be two or three companies at least of regulars kept there as long as safety demands it. I think the result of the war will be to keep the Indians out of the state for the future, and I think it will have a good moral effect on the southern Utes. Gen. Merritt is looking after them pretty well."

"Do the people around Meeker seem satisfied?"

"Yes, they believe the Indians will keep quiet. I am blamed at that end of the line for not sending more troops almost as much as I am blamed at this end for sending any, but I believe the thing has turned out about right. I think we have got rid of Colorow and that the Indians will not come over the Utah line again. I believe we have done a good deal towards settling the Indian question."

"Is Kendall blamed at all in Meeker?"

"Yes, he is blamed a good deal. Kendall is brave, but hot-headed. He seemed determined to get those horse-thieves, and I think his course did a good deal to precipitate trouble. I believe that if we had not sent the troops the Indians would have overcome Kendall and his men, and the result would have been a general massacre. That the end would have been the wiping out of all the Indians who were outside the reservation is probable, but it would have cost a good deal of money and bloodshed to do it, and if the Indians stay on the reservation and behave themselves perhaps enough has been accomplished. The truth is Colorow has been badly frightened. When he saw the troops he thought them all cowboys, and seeing men in uniform, I suppose, made him believe the whole state was after him, so he started to run and never stopped running until he reached the Utah line. I believe Colorow is satisfied. I think he is disposed to regard this as a natural reprisal for the Meeker massacre and accepts it as destiny."

"We learned," said Governor Adams, "from the best of sources, that when Kendall first went after Colorow's band to arrest the horse-thieves, the Indians fired on the sheriff's posse. This I have from reliable authority. It is Colorow's own report of the affair. He says his men fired on the sheriff's posse, but claims that if he had been in camp he would have prevented it. This was before any troops had been called out or any excitement had occurred over the matter in Denver. The people of Meeker have been very badly frightened, and naturally and justly so. Colorow and his band have constantly been robbing, murdering and harassing settlers from the days of 1873 down to the present time. The Thornburg massacre, the Meeker massacre, the killing of Elliot, and a constant stealing of horses have made the settlers naturally hate and fear Colorow. Think of that horrible Meeker massacre and the assault upon those women! And Colorow has never been punished for it. Rather he was rewarded by the government and given better rations and quarters than he had before."

"Do the Indians on the reservation like Colorow?"

"No, they do not. They despise him. They sneer at him and taunt him with the Meeker massacre. They will blame him now for getting up trouble with the whites. There has never been any danger of a general Indian uprising on the reservation. The Indians generally have little confidence in Colorow. A good many of them are quietly pursuing stock raising and other employments, and they don't seem as a rule to wish for war."

"How many Indians did Colorow have?"

"Probably some seventy or eighty. The number was variously put down at from 125 to 200, but seventy-five or eighty Indians is probably near the fact. When the trouble commenced Colorow had some fifty braves up above Meeker."

"What are the terms of the agreement with Colorow?"

"There is no agreement exactly, except that Colorow has agreed to stay on the reservation and Gen. Crook has agreed to keep him there. When Gen. Crook came he said he was sent there to take the Indians back on the reservation. He was somewhat surprised to learn that the Indians had already gone to the reservation, and were not at all anxious to stir out of it again. The first thing ordered done is the surveying of the reservation or state line. The Indians have always claimed that they did not know where the state line was. Gen. Crook is going to see that monuments are erected on the line and that the line is so clearly defined the Indians can have no excuse for crossing it. United States troops will be kept in the country until absolute safety is assured. The government will also keep a couple of companies on the line where they are doing the surveying for the state line."

"In speaking of the state militia Governor Adams said: 'They behaved nobly. They fought bravely, and endured a good many hardships. Leslie in his official report stated: 'On this day we killed a cow, making a note of the brand and weight, and this was the first meat we had for thirty hours.' A little further along he says: 'We killed another animal, and had the second meat we had had in seventy-two hours.' Most of the troops are now pretty well provided for, but a day or two since I came across a camp where the boys had no provision except bacon and hard tack. No fault can be found with the troops; they have done well."

"I have received a whole batch of letters to-day," continued Governor Adams, "from people all over the state, commending me for my actions. The people who have lived long in the state know what a pest the Indians are, and how necessary it is to have them out of the state if possible."

When questioned as to whether the National government had had these troubles misrepresented to it, the governor replied: "I don't know; all I got from Washington was some telegrams."

Brutal Wife Murder.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 8.—At 2:30 this morning a man about sixty, clad in workman's garments, which, together with his hands were covered with blood, asked to be locked up as he had killed his wife. He gave his name as Alois Proell, and said that he had struck his wife four times with an ax, but gave no reason for his crime. When the officers reached the house the woman was found lying in bed in a pool of blood with two deep gashes on the right side of her head. One blow had crushed through the skull, inflicting a fatal wound. On Saturday last Proell was arrested on complaint of his daughter Maggie, aged nineteen, for attempting to commit a criminal assault upon her. He was arraigned and let out on bail. The neighbors think Proell is insane. His victim is still alive, but cannot recover.

Tennessee's Defaulter Not Living.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 8.—Undertaker W. R. Corneliuss says there is no truth in the special from Chattanooga to the effect that Marsh T. Polk, defaulting treasurer of Tennessee, was still alive and engaged in business in the City of Mexico; that he had Polk's dead body under his charge for thirty-six hours after his death, and prepared it for interment at Bolivar, West Tennessee. If it were unearthed the remains of a man with one leg would be found. Men of undoubted veracity testified to Polk's death when the question of whether he was still alive was raised here at the time his body was taken to Bolivar and interred.

Governor Porter Resigns.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—A Washington special to the Herald says: It is said that Governor Porter has tendered his resignation to the president as first assistant secretary of state. No reason is assigned except that the duties of the position are now congenial and that possibly the relations between himself and Mr. Bayard have grown a trifle strained. At the hotel where Mr. Porter stops it was announced when inquiry was made for him last night that he had not yet returned from the White house reception. Later it was found that he had retired early in the evening, and was not accessible.

Loss to an Ohio Village.

FINDLAY, O., Sept. 8.—A Republican special from Rawson, a village nine miles west of here, says: Fire started in Rodebaugh & Crossley's saw mill about 11 o'clock this morning, and spread rapidly until it seemed as if the entire village would be destroyed. Findlay was telegraphed to for help, and sent a steamer, and about 4 o'clock the fire was got under control. Among the buildings destroyed were the postoffice and a large grain elevator, containing over two thousand bushels of wheat. There were ten business and twelve dwelling houses destroyed, with a loss of $60,000.

Foreign Labor Contract Suit.

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—The United States district attorney has begun an action against Ross, Turner & Co., for a violation of the United States statute prohibiting the importation of foreign contract labor. The firm recently brought to Boston five female spinners from Ireland, and the Knights of Labor brought the matter to the attention of the district attorney. The penalty is $1,000 for each laborer imported.

Massachusetts Prohibitionists.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 8.—The delegates to the state convention of the Prohibition party continue to arrive in large numbers and 1,000 delegates will probably take part in the deliberations. William H. Earl, of Worcester, was selected as chairman of the committee on permanent organization, and F. P. Dyer, Mrs. E. I. Hill and W. P. Symonds secretaries.

Death of a Mexican War Veteran.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Sept. 8.—Col. Newton G. Scott died last evening, aged sixty-five. In 1846 he enlisted in the famous mounted rifle regiment and participated in all the battles of Gen. Winfield Scott's campaign from Vera Cruz to Cerro Gordo, by being one of the first to enter the City of Mexico. He was also lieutenant colonel of the Forty-sixth Indiana.

Illinois Has a Howan County.

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill., Sept. 8.—The notorious Belt-Oldham feud, which has caused the murder of not less than a dozen persons in Hardin county, is likely to break out again at any time. Oath-bound organizations are known to exist among the lawless people in the hills, and there are indications that their purpose is assassination.

New Albany, Sept. 8.—A 3 o'clock this morning a terrific explosion occurred in the lower rolling mill. The bottom sheet of the boiler flew out with a tremendous force, injuring Joe Wilson badly. One hundred men were working in the vicinity when the boiler collapsed.

Who Are the Criminals?

CARELESSNESS THE CAUSE OF THE GREAT DISASTER AT EXETER.

The Criminal Responsibility Being Shifted From One to Another, Which Will Enable the Guilty Ones to Escape Punishment—Other Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The burning of the Theater Royal at Exeter is the topic of conversation in the old world. It was claimed that the theater was modern in every detail, and the owners boasted that a hundred persons could appear on the stage. Still, when by carelessness the flies took fire, there was but a single exit for those in the gallery. The fatal stairway, where so many were roasted, was not wide enough for three to walk abreast. The criminal responsibility is shifted from one to another, so that it is quite likely the guilty ones will escape punishment.

The government will make a complete investigation of the matter. Mr. Matthews, the home secretary, said that the home office had no right to proceed with an examination before the local authorities had acted. The local magistrates are responsible for having licensed an unsafe building. Additional legislation is necessary to secure greater protection to theater-goers, and a bill to that end will be introduced as soon as possible.

The attendance at the London theaters has visibly decreased since the calamity, and packed houses are not likely to greet any performance for some time.

But few of the charred remains have yet been identified. The audience numbered eight hundred persons, at least 140 of whom were burned to death. Sixty were seriously injured.

A scene-shifter said the fire started in some gauze, and that the stage was full of light scenery, which was soon enveloped in a sheet of flame.

The inquest began yesterday before a large attendance of mourners, and for sanitary reasons a general burial took place to-day.

Among the messages of sympathy is one from the queen.

League of Peace and Liberty.

GENEVA, Sept. 8.—The International League of Peace and Liberty closed its session here yesterday. The league included among the various matters it considered the advocacy of a permanent board of arbitration between England and America, and also requested the federal council to initiate a similar tribunal between the different European nations.

An American Citizen Arrested Abroad.

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—Hans Jakobsen, an American citizen, has been arrested in the Lysabell woods, on the island of Alsen, in the Baltic sea, on a charge of deserting from the army in 1878.

Will O'Brien Fail to Appear.

LIMERICK, Sept. 8.—It is commonly rumored that Mr. William O'Brien will fail to answer his summons to appear before a magistrate at Mitchelltown on Friday.

A Creditors' Meeting.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 8.—A meeting of creditors of the Richmond Paper company was held here to-day. There were about one hundred gentlemen present. Charles A. Morrigan was elected chairman and William W. Palmer, secretary. The meeting was quiet and disposed to lenient action. The statement of Treasurer Sockett showed net liabilities, $901,400.90; net assets, $609,071.63. Of the assets $937,544.89 is in the construction, etc., and the rest in notes and some cash. A committee of five was appointed to investigate the affairs of the company. A resolution was adopted that it be the sense of the meeting that creditors abstain from taking any steps to place attachments or bring law suits against the concern until the committee had reported and the creditors had considered the report. It was also recommended that the managers run the mill for the present as usual.

The Wheeler Failure.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 8.—The failure of the E. S. Wheeler & Co., is the principal topic of conversation here to-day. The firm's liabilities to equal if not exceed a million. The firms paper is held by many of the local banks but their is no fear of further trouble. As soon as the banks closed it was known that H. M. Welch, Mr. Wheeler's father-in-law, had refused to accommodate the embarrassed firm at his bank and then all doubts as to the truth of the reported failure vanished. An assignment covering all the firms and individuals' assets has been made in favor of S. A. Galpin, secretary of the New Haven Wire company. No statement of liabilities and assets is as yet obtainable.

Destructive Tornado.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 8.—At 4 o'clock last evening a tornado that originated near Adrian, Mich., passed about four miles west of this city. In its course it narrowly missed the Tri-state fair grounds, where thousands of people are still assembled. It caught the new insane asylum and damaged it to the amount of $8,000. No casualties are reported, although the freaks of the wind were numerous and many narrow escapes were made. Fences were leveled, barns blown down and trees uprooted in the course of the tornado, but the greatest damage so far reported was at Toledo.

Almost Another Theater Panic.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—In case of a fire in an American theater the result would probably be as bad as that in the Exeter horror. Last night smoke from a fire in the Edison Machine works blew into the Casino. Some one yelled "Fire!" and rushed out repeating the alarm. A panic seemed imminent, and despite cries of "Sit Down," "No danger," and the like, the stairs were soon jammed. Order was soon restored, but not until some had lost their watches and pocket-books.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 8.—Rev. Alvin Woods, D.D., died this morning after a protracted illness. He was ordained in 1831, and took a professorship in Columbia college, at Washington, and later was president of the University of Alabama.

MR. CLEVELAND INTERVIEWED.

What He Has to Say of the Recent Grand Army Incidents.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The World's Washington correspondent telegraphs a long series of interviews with President Cleveland, in which the following occurs touching the recent agitation in the Grand Army, the outgivings of Tuttle and the Wheeling episode, the president said: "The soldier having laid down his arms, after making so many sacrifices and enduring so many hardships, having achieved such a vast and good work in perpetuating our republic should be pre-eminently the best citizen. When he again in time of peace resumes his citizenship, his desire for the peace and quiet of his country and its prosperity, entirely independent upon these, should be emphasized by the very trials he has undergone. I do not believe he can be carried away from the even plane of that good citizenship by the devices of unscrupulous men who would use him for partisan purposes."

"I referred to a dispatch from St. Louis intimating that there might be overt action in retaliation for the Wheeling incident; that his portrait would be displayed at prominent points along the route of the Grand Army procession with hostile intent to see if any demonstration should be made against it."

"I do not believe there is any truth in this," he said. "It is contrary to what I know to be the spirit of the municipal and commercial bodies which have invited me there, and which I believe to be the spirit of the whole people of St. Louis. They are certainly animated by the most hospitable intent toward their September visitors; and will leave nothing undone which the most courteous host could do to make the stay of the Grand Army delegates as memorable and as pleasant as possible. I believe that they would omit to do anything which would interfere with the comfort and thorough enjoyment of their guests. The display of my portrait is very unimportant. If its omission should be regarded as in the interest of harmony I feel sure there will be no attempt to display it."

The president, when asked about his resignation, dilated upon the burden of office, and said nothing but a sense of solemn obligation would induce any one who had borne its weight to take it up again.

A Terrible Accident.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 8.—A fearful accident on the Gulf road near Seymour, thirty-five miles east, occurred yesterday morning. The railroad train left the track and the rail spreading the engine and fourteen cars fell down a fifteen foot embankment. The locomotive turned over four times, burying Engineer Smith and Fireman Edwards beneath the cab. Brakeman Scott had his arms broken, and his legs smashed; Engineer Smith had the flesh scalded off his back and shoulders and his chest crushed in; Fireman Edwards was scalded and received internal injuries from which he will die. The cars of freight are smashed causing a loss amounting to fully $50,000.

The Haddock Murder Trial.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 8.—Renewed interest in the Haddock conspiracy trial is manifested this morning, and the court room is crowded as a result of the special venire for seventy jurors issued by Judge Wakefield. The case on the docket is that of Munchath, who is charged with murder and conspiracy. The prosecution is considerably hampered by want of funds, and fears are expressed that on this account it will be impossible to convict the accused.

McGarigle to Be Indicted.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—The grand jury will resume its session on Thursday, and an indictment will be presented against McGarigle, Pinkerton and Hickey for conspiring to place James Baxter's photograph in the rogue's gallery at Chicago, for the purpose of manufacturing false evidence against him. Detectives Kellert, of Montreal, and Matt Pinkerton, of Chicago, are watching McGarigle in Ontario, and reporting every move to the crown prosecutor here. McGarigle is living near St. Catherine's.

Greensburg, Indiana, Has a Good Gas.

GREENSBURG, Ind., Sept. 8.—The Tom Stevenson gas well was "shot" with 100 quarts nitro-glycerine yesterday afternoon, and the result was a genuine surprise. The well threw out large stones and hurled them several hundred feet into the air. The gas was lighted, and a flame fifty feet in length and fifteen feet in width leaped into the air with a terrific roar. The well is located at the Emery flouring mill, and will be at once utilized to run the mill.

Too Many Horse Thieves.

WINCHESTER, Ind., Sept. 8.—Last night a fine horse was stolen from Harvey Wyong, a farmer, south of here, and a team worth $400 was also taken from Lee Hallaway. Horse thieves are getting prominent around here, and no less than six valuable animals have disappeared within a few weeks. It is supposed that a band which has operated for years is located near here, and efforts will be made to arrest the members.

Anarchists' Case Not Mentioned.

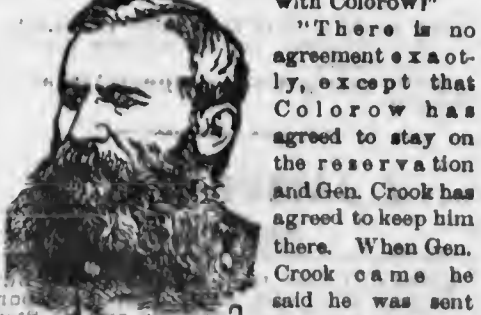

OTTAWA, Ill., Sept. 8.—The supreme court met at 9 o'clock this morning with a full bench present with the exception of Justice Scott. After making the announcements in six cases, and entering some motions, and without mentioning the Anarchists' case, the court was adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow. The indications are that no opinion in the bombthrowers' cases will be filed this week.

Big Day in Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 8.—To-day was a great day in Toledo. The natural gas was burning last night from twenty standpoints, and after speeches from ex-President Hayes and others this evening the river was turned into a fountain of fire. This was done by running gaspiped out into the river, and when the gas rose to the surface it was lighted, producing a most beautiful effect.

A Natural Gas Explosion.

NEW BREMEN, O., Sept. 8.—An explosion occurred at the Aze gas well yesterday afternoon. It is supposed that the escaping gas in the derrick ignited the flame, which was conducted away from the derrick. The pressure was strong, causing the casing in the well to burst, and burning the derrick to the ground.

MR. S. P. REDMOND, a former citizen of this city, arrived this morning on a visit to his friends and relatives. He has been employed in a large business house at Buffalo, N. Y., for some time, but has accepted a more lucrative position at Chattanooga, Tenn. The Buffalo Evening News, says: "The twenty-five salesmen of J. Sheean & Co. assembled the other evening at the residence of Mr. Wm. P. Hughes on West Tupper street, and presented an elegant gold-headed cane to their old associate, Mr. S. P. Redmond, who soon leaves for his new home at Chattanooga, Tenn. Joseph Dougherty made the presentation speech and Mr. Redmond was so overcome that he could scarce reply. Short and happy addresses were made by Messrs. McElwaine, Kenny, Taggart and Davis."

Important Ruling on Saloon-License Question.

An Enquirer special from Paducah, Ky., says: "For a long time there has been trouble in Fulton County over the refusal of the authorities to grant saloons license to retail liquors there, and especially in the town of Hickman, the County Judge claiming it was discretionary with his Court whether or not such licenses should be granted, and they were universally refused. Some six months ago a test case was started, and H. O. Judge filed in the Circuit Court, Judge C. L. Randle presiding, a petition asking that Joshua Nailor, Judge of Fulton County Court, be required to issue such license to him, he having complied with all requirements of law. The Court gave a decision in the matter on Saturday. It was held that although former laws conferred discretionary power, as claimed, on the County Judge, later statutes made it mandatory on him to issue such license when requested, unless there was previously filed with him a written protest, signed by a majority of citizens of the community in which such license was asked, and in the absence of such protest in the case above mentioned a mandamus was ordered directing the County Judge to issue the license prayed for. It was held that under later statutes a County Judge's authority ceased to be judicial and was only ministerial, and that he could not lawfully refuse to issue a license without the aforesaid protest signed by a majority of the people. "This is the first case of the kind decided by a Circuit Court in Kentucky. The case will doubtless be taken to the Court of Appeals."

An Uneasy People.

At Flenimburg, Henry Blow, a negro, has been placed under a five-hundred-dollar bond for his good behavior and to keep the peace. The arrest grew out of the lynching of the rapist, Charles Coleman, the other night. The negroes are said to be highly incensed, because of the fact that one of their own color was so severely and, as they claim undeservedly, dealt with, while the three rapists confined in the same prison, and equally guilty, were allowed to escape a similar punishment. They have been bold in their declaration that certain whites who were suspected of participating in the lynching of Coleman would meet with dire punishment. The Mayor had the town guarded one or two nights this week by a crowd armed with shot-guns, to prevent any trouble on the part of the negroes. Blow, the fellow arrested, is charged with being a leader of the proposed negro mob.

A Miserable Mail Service.

The new railway mail messenger who went on duty a few days ago on the Kentucky Central seems to have gotten things into a terrible tangle. The Courier-Journal of Sunday and Monday came in Tuesday night, the Frankfort Capital, that ought to have been received last Saturday night, arrived yesterday at noon, and it's about the same way with many other of our exchanges. We understand four sacks of mail that belonged up the road came here yesterday on the noon train. The Mercury is complaining, and says: "Carlisle received no mail last Monday night. A new messenger carried it by that night, and forgot it again Tuesday morning, and again Tuesday night."

A New Pastor.

Elder Walter S. Priest has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Christian Church of this city. He has had charge of a church at Sabina, Kan., for some time. Elder Priest is a graduate of Bethany College, W. Va., and entered the ministry about seven years ago. He has preached in Illinois, and at Atchison and Sabina, Kan., the church at Sabina being his third charge. He will assume pastoral charge of the church in this city on the first Sunday of next month.

Stock and Crops.

The pastures in Fleming County are dry and farmers are said to be feeding their stock.

There is a strange disease reported among the cattle in the southern part of Fleming County. They are attacked with watery eyes, diminished feeding and then become entirely blind.

The continued drouth will, it is said, cause almost a total failure of many of the crops in Bracken County. The corn crop will not be more than 30 per cent. of what it was last year. Reports in regard to the tobacco crop are more discouraging than in years past. In some parts of that county it is reported there will be no tobacco housed this fall.

E. J. Baldwin's pet race horse, Lucky B, died at Sheepshead Bay Sunday morning from the attack of cerebro spinal meningitis with which he was prostrated on Friday last. Lucky B. was a bay stallion, seven years old, by Rutherford. He was a stayer and a great cup horse, and won $50,000 for his owner since he first became known by winning the stakes for two-year-old colts at Chicago. There were three surgeons present in consultation just before the racer's death.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.
 Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner. Free trial bottles of this standard remedy at the drug stores of J. C. Pecor & Co., and S. P. Campbell & Co., at Aberdeen Ohio.

"UNEASY RESTS THE HEAD THAT WEARS A CROWN."

The Little Difficulties in King Kalakaua's Kingdom Not Settled By the New Constitution—Queen Kapiolani as a Back-sitter—Government Expenditures.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Advice just received from Honolulu says that the political eruption in the little kingdom has not by any means died out. King Kalakaua got the worst of the movement on June last, but the people who are supposed to have got the best of it do not appear to be satisfied. Persons in power will magnify their own importance somehow, and now some of the foreign element are complaining of it. It is claimed that there is a bit too much of military rule. Newspapers do not dare to give all the news, especially in the matter of court proceedings and foreign comment on Hawaiian affairs, so that altogether it looks as though the reformers themselves need reforming, and the new constitution needs reconstruction before matters settle down and business recovers from its present dullness.

The troubles in Hawaii reach back many years. A common complaint or source of grumbling in Honolulu and throughout the Hawaiian kingdom has been the extravagance with which public affairs have been conducted, and Mr. Gibson, being heir-general of all former administrative abuses, comes in for unanimous censure as the source and spring of all evil. But, in truth, there were abuses and extravagance long before he had any potential voice in affairs, although it must be said when he got into power instead of putting down brakes he threw open the valves, and with the utmost possible head of steam, let the engine of state "rip."

To the American people—accustomed to official peculation and jobbery in municipal, state and national affairs and who look with equanimity upon a general average of raciality—the motive that impelled the white population of the Hawaiian Islands to enter into a seditious and treasonable conspiracy against the government may appear absurd. But when it is understood that the political and social vitality of the kingdom is compressed into a space of about ten square miles, as an outside area, the thing becomes intelligible. The irritation and friction becomes incessant. Distance, time and intervention of other and more direct interests, which tend to modify political opinion and rub off angles in the states, were wanting here, and although the magnitude of the evil relatively was small, as the government kept on constantly "rubbing it in," as it were, an outbreak was inevitable.

When the reciprocity treaty was ratified by the United States congress capital was attracted to the Hawaiian islands, and lavish expenditure in private life was the result. The government followed suit. The legislature, which was largely Kanaka, did not understand why or how the money came and soon began to speak of and vote millions as they formerly did hundreds of dollars. The king was "in the swim." Every day was a holiday with him now; and having made the grand tour of the world he resolved to play the role of grand monarch. In these views and proclivities he was encouraged by his minister, Gibson, and the public service was made subservient to them. As far as possible every office holder became a member of the legislature, and thus constituted all things in the way of appropriation and condonation became possible.

The session of 1894 began with a deficit of $61,848.14, for which a bill of indemnity was asked and passed, but a large indebtedness existed besides which was not taken into account and was only subsequently presented to the legislature. At the opening of the session of 1895 the government estimated the revenue for the biennial period at $2,339,924.85, and the expenditures at $2,339,800.62. The appropriation act, as passed after two changes of ministry, Mr. Gibson always retaining office, was $4,552,477.16, added to which was a loan act for $2,000,000, under which the London syndicate has managed to get away with nearly $300,000 as commissions and charges out of $1,000,000 entrusted to them to borrow. Twenty per cent seems to be a rather steep price to pay for the privilege of transferring the financial credit of the Hawaiian government from American capitalists—that is, from Col. Claus Spreckels—to English capitalists—that is, to a syndicate of London sharpers; but the king and his dissolute advisers so willed it, and Gibson, who always bends the supple hinges of the knee that thrift may follow fawning, assented.

The Hawaiian appropriation act is in itself a work of consummate art. It embodies, besides all necessary provision for the public service every possible job and device for pandering to royal dissoluteness and folly. It is, in short, the rivers and harbors bill, the non-descript pensions and subsidy bills and all other bills introduced into congress for the easement of the treasury surplus rolled into one. It is a piece of patchwork skillfully built, every piece in which was carefully placed by the king, with the aid of Gibson, without the knowledge or consent of the other ministers, except in a general way. As the appropriation bill of 1895 is likely to be the last of this series, some little insight into Hawaiian affairs may be gained by its overhaul.

Leaving the really useful and coming to the ornamental and vicious, take a glance at the civil list—$143,000 for the biennial period. Of this amount the king gets $50,000, plus income from crown lands—worth about $80,000 a year. Queen Kapiolani gets $17,000, plus rents from crown and government lands leased to her by the king—and let it be said, by the way, that her majesty of Hawaii could give points in rickety to any Irish landlord, as the Portuguese tenants holding under her can testify. Around Punchbowl are a score of neat houses, built by the Portuguese on short leases—three years or so, as a rule. They have cultivated their little holdings diligently, planted vines and flowers and garden truck, and converted an arid stretch of land into smiling gardens. But Kapiolani, when their short leases run out, doubled up the rent, and they were compelled to pay or abandon the result of their labor and expenditure. The rent screw, in all probability, will be again applied when the present term expires.
